

The aim of this work was to create a computer model that would simulate the process of the experiment performed on the apparatus SA CRDS. The program has two results. The first is determination of the concentrations of plasma's species in the active discharge. The second result is electron temperature in the afterglow. To create the model we needed to determine ongoing interactions and their rate constants. The method of chemical kinetics is important in this work.