

ABSTRACT

The topic of diploma work is municipality involvement and its possibilities in community planning of social services. The theoretical part explains terms such as municipality, community, social capital, social policy as well as other theoretical data. It brings information from work of our as well as foreign authors, response information obtained in scientific studies. Attention is also paid to the systems of social care abroad, including their theoretical models. Further more the diploma work deals with the development of social services after the year 1989, legislative changes with the impact on the practical application into the live of municipalities and citizens. One of the chapters is addressed to the problems of population aging with impacts on securing social services; another is addressed to the definition of community and conditions of community planning. Practical part is addressed above all on the process of social services community planning in the individual cities. It judge principle fullfillment according to the methodology of commodity planning recommended by Ministry of work and social services. It observes also specific conditions for executing social services planing intention.