

Abstract

The aim of my bachelor thesis is to characterise the Imanuelites movement based on the reflections of the movement in Czech national daily newspaper. The theoretical part focuses on the terms new religious movements and sects. Furthermore, it explores the Grail Movement, which the Imanuelites movement follows, its past and evolution throughout history. In the next chapter, the Imanuelites' history is presented, special attention is given to the movement's founder Jan Dvorský and its development in the 90s. The final part is devoted to the comparison of quality media and tabloids and the ways how each captured the Imanuelites movement in the years 1993 - 2017.
