

Abstract

This Master thesis is dedicated to pasture and the overall image of animal husbandry in Central Europe in La Tène Period and Roman Age. An important part is evaluation of osteological assemblages grazed animals, the question of the spectrum of species and creating models applied in the territory of today's Czech republic. A meaningful component of this study is comparison farmed animals at the time of La Tène and Roman period.

Keywords: pasture – animal husbandry – agriculture – La Tène period – Roman period - archaeozoology