

Abstract:

The bachelor thesis aims to cover the relationship between children's well-being and family relationships. This study consists of two parts. The first literary-overview part provides theoretical information on the topic of children's well-being and its relationship with parental rearing styles, parent-child communication and time spent together. Literary-overview part is based mostly on the results of foreign research. The second part presents a proposal of empirical survey, which would investigate the relationship between children's well-being and family relationships concerning Czech adolescents. The proposed research is of a quantitative type and it could be applied in counselling practice.

Keywords:

Children's well-being, parental rearing styles, parent-child communication, time spent together