

Abstract

This bachelor thesis contains a commented translation of the selected French text into Czech language. The thesis is divided into two parts. The first part consists of a translation of two chapters from the book Mon chat et moi, on se soigne ! by Jean-Yves Gauchet. The second part is a theoretical commentary of the translation. It includes the analysis of the original text, description of the chosen translation method, typology of the most important translation problems and their solution and also typology of translation shifts that emerged during the translation process.
