

Dissertation Long-term project in a primary school surveys the use of a longterm project teaching in a primary school and depicts a long-term project called Health by means of using a wide range of teaching techniques and methods. Theoretical part of dissertation includes observations about areas of organisation of work and basic terminology of project teaching in a primary school. Practical part describes the realisation of the year-round project Health immersed in a fourth class and its subsequent reflection.