

ABSTRACT

The thesis (rigorous work) is engaged in possibilities of displaced persons social exclusion measurement and was created on the recommendation of the Examination Board by extending and supplementing the diploma thesis. The first chapter contains definitions of terms used in the thesis. The following chapter comprises abridged and modified translation of methodology manual of Indicators of poverty and social exclusion, so-called Laeken indicators. In the third chapter there is described role of the Czech Statistical Office from the perspective of Law on State Statistic Service and in relation with homelessness. The next chapter describes history of homelessness, its typology and several aspects of different social science disciplines. The thesis is supplemented by the approach to homelessness in the 70s of the last century in the context of the crime of subsistence. The last chapter describes selected social transfers provided in the Czech Republic and designed tool for measurement of social exclusion resulting in an index of relative social exclusion.