

Abstract

Title of the work: Reputation and popularity of parkour in the Czech Republic.

Objectives: The bachelor thesis researches a chosen group of people. The main objective of this work is to find out if people know about the sports activity called parkour, what experience do they have with this activity and what is their stance on the issue. Achieved results might prove useful to coaches in improving people's stances towards parkour and introducing them to this sports activity.

Methods: The bachelor thesis has been done using questionnaire survey. It was published in an electronic form through various social networks. In addition, an interview was made with one of the first traceurs, Tomáš.

Results: The results show that parkour is becoming more and more popular. People are interested in this sports activity and their opinions about parkour are rather positive than negative.

Key words: Parkour, reputation, attitude, sports activity, questionnaire survey, interview