

Annotation

This bachelor thesis is focused on migrant quota referendum in Hungary that was held in 2016. The main goal was to find out if the referendum was the expression of the opinion of Hungarian people and what impact it had on Hungary in international scale. In this first chapter, for the correct understanding what does referendum means is briefly explained theoretical part and parts about referendum in Hungarian constitution law are drawn up. The author also focuses on Hungarian approach to migrant crisis and what actions caused referendum at first. A follow up the campaign, which had strong impact on results of referendum, on analysis of results and its effect in domestic policy and parliamentary elections in 2018 and further the impact of the referendum on Hungarian position in the European Union. Author has primary used web sources, interviews and statements of politicians, as the topic is fairly fresh and academic literature is not yet processed.