

The thesis belongs to “implementation category”. The goal of this thesis is to design and implement relational extensions of the selected GUHA procedures that are implemented in LISp-Miner system. 4ft-Miner and SD4ft-Miner have been selected for the implementation of relational extensions. There have also been implemented several methods for attribute transformation. Procedures have been implemented in the Ferda Dataminer environment.