Abstract

The diploma thesis presents a collection of solved problems in binary relations. Students are familiarized with various applications of binary relations on high school mathematics and geometry. The work focuses on graphical representation of binary relations and their use in solving equations, inequalities and their systems. It is a teaching text designated for a mathematics seminar at high school. In addition to exercises, it also includes an introduction of new concepts which are supplemented by relevant definitions and illustrative examples.