ABSTRACT

This bachelor thesis deals with theoretical analysis of selected words from Beste Freunde course book. The theoretical part draws from professional literature and analyzes Czech and German phonic system separately. Both systems are compared afterwards. The practical part deals with classification of pronunciation features which can be wrongly pronounced by Czech students. It also deals with analysis of selected wordstock from the course book and anticipates, where pronounciation errors could occur when being pronunced by Czech speakers. The aim of this thesis was to create an aid for teachers who teach using this course book and this thesis could help them with correct pronounciation teaching.
