

Abstract

Title

Development and equipment of divers in special forces.

Objectives

The objective of this thesis is to analyze the facts about work of diving groups in special units of the Army of the Czech Republic, especially in the 601st Special Forces Group of General Moravec.

Methods

The methods of work were standard historical methods, especially direct methods, which describe reality using one or more sources and progressive. The results were then compiled and compared.

Results

Comprehensive description of diver's job development at czech special units.

Keywords

Diver, Diver unit, Army of the Czech Republic, special units