

Annotation

This research paper will examine the policy of European Union towards conflict in Eastern Ukraine, in which the main focus will be aimed towards analysis of policies, programmes and other forms of interaction between European Union and Ukraine. In reaction to the research question are two answers, each one put into separate hypothesis and compared with chosen political theory. By analysis and observation of programmes such as European Neighbourhood policy, Eastern Partnership or European Union's Advisory Mission, will the research help us define the policy of European Union towards Ukraine, both before the Maidan and after. Observed will be also exact steps of European Union in international affairs and in relation to the conflict. This sum of information will be subsequently compared with theories and the focus of the research will be concentrated on finding common definitions with theories set in research approach.
