

This thesis implements an artificial player for this game. Part of this thesis is a simulator, possibility to play against an AI player and a possibility to play against another human in the form of a hotseat game (multiplayer game on one computer). A framework was designed in order to be used for future development and testing of AI in this game.