

Abstract: The content of the thesis is a description of heuristic procedures, which are used to find the shortest paths in the graphs and verify their effectiveness on the actual data. It deals with heuristics for Dijkstra's algorithm, especially the A* algorithm, which uses a lower distance-to-target estimate. Heuristics are implemented and tested on the road network of the Czech Republic.