

Abstract:

The name of this thesis is The Christological and Soteriological Analysis of The Synopsis theologiae dogmaticae specialis from ThDr. Vojtěch Šanda. This piece was written by latin language in the 1916 and 1922. Vojtěch Šanda was the Czech theologian (he was born in 1873 and died in 1953). He was profesor in Faculty of theology in Prague and he became dean of this faculty in the year 1950. He studied in University of Innsbruck. In the first chapter of this thesis is biography and bibliography of author Synopsis... - Vojtěch Šanda. In the second chapter is the structure of Synopsis.... In the last chapter is analysis of the christological and soteriological questions. These questions goes to the Biblical-theological resources of Synopsis..., to the Christological titles for Jesus Christ, to the Mystery of Jesus life, to the Primary Purpose of Incarnations, to the Kenosis, to the Self-consciouness and knowledge of Jesus Christ, and finally to the Soteriological models interpretation of the Jesus Cross. The piece Synopsis... is high-quality manual of the first half 20th century.

Very often he quoted the gospels of Saint John, of Mark, and St. Paul,... His christological titles are Christus, Word, Son - high christology. His interpretation starts from God's word - christology from above. Šanda gave accent to the Logos sarx. His christological answers are orthodoxy. His soteriological models were satisfaction, redemption, merit and sacrifice (victim). The complementary view is a fundamental point of Šanda answers for these (christological and soteriological) questions.
