

This doctoral thesis focuses on examining the way the Czech political life representatives, journalists and scholars perceived the Ukrainian nationalist activities and efforts, in particular their attitudes to this issue between 1900 and 1938.