

Abstract

Title: Analysis of the activities of the mounted police in the Czech Republic and municipal mounted police in Prague.

Objectives: Comparison of selection and training of police horse. Comparison of hippologic activities of the mounted police and municipal mounted police in Prague. Data analysis of activities of the mounted police since 2015 till 2019. Patrol analysis activity of the municipal mounted police in Prague in 2019 and comparison with the mounted police patrol activity in the Czech Republic.

Methods: Data collection from the head of the mounted police of the Czech Republic in Prague and the head of the municipal mounted police in Prague. Study of available literature and subsequent research. Data analysis from Czech police was divided according to the types of interventions, locations and frequency for every single year. The data comparison with the municipal mounted police in Prague was based on frequency of patrol activities in 2019.

Results: Result is comparison of hippologic activities of mounted police and municipal mounted police in Prague. Differences in selection and training of horses by mounted police and municipal mounted police in Prague. Comparison of frequency and types interventions by mounted police since 2015 till 2019. Differences in patrol activities for the mounted police of the Czech Republic and municipal mounted police in Prague.

Keywords: police of the Czech Republic, mounted police, selection and training of horses, analysis