

Abstract

Title: Attitudes and awareness of students UK FTVS about darts

Objectives: The main goal of this bachelor thesis is to find out attitudes and awareness of UK FTVS's students about darts. There are also other goals – testing students's knowledge about darts and description of darts' history and culture.

Methods: As far as research, quantitative method of questionnaire survey was used. Students were asked to answer eighteen questions which were based on operationalization and approved pilotage. The other used method was in-depth interview. Topics of the problematics were discussed on the basis of half-structured interviews, led by qualified experts. The working out of theoretic part was done by studying of specialized literature and internet pages or articles and also by information from interviews with experts.

Results: The survey showed the majority does not understand darts as a professional sport but as a kind of entertainment, Almost everybody has already played darts and more than half would take part in some tournament. Students seem to have quite good knowledge about darts as well. The results revealed certain interest of students in darts, slightly above-average awareness and mostly positive attitude.

Keywords: darts, sport, attitudes, awareness, students