

ANNOTATION

The thesis analyses the old age pension system in the Czech republic from these points of view: demographic and historical evolution, present situation and reform. It contains comparison with different old age pension systems of three European countries – Germany, Great Britain and Sweden, and deduces the possible utilization of their experiences in the Czech republic.