The present work investigates method of automatical generation of 3D object from series of specialy prepared pictures.