

The goal of this work is to study and implement most frequently used algorithms for noise filtering. The results should be tools for:
filtering additive noise – study and implement at least two nontrivial algorithms; removal of image defects caused by defective pixels on image sensors (“hot pixels”).