

The present study focuses on the way of expressing the general human agent in the English language by means of personal pronouns you, we and they, and the indefinite pronoun one.