

In the thesis we concern with simulators of artificial life. The thesis models and submits a software simulator for research on evolution of simple organisms. Conducted experiments and their results are described.