

The presented diploma thesis tries to inspect one small border dispute that left a remarkable trace in history of the South Moravian village of Hevlín and the neighbouring Austrian market-town of Laa an der Thaya in the 16th and early 17th century.