

The subject of this work is the application PMLViewer. This application is designed for visualization of files in PML format. It is able to draw dependency and constituency trees described in this format and in addition it offers a possibility to modify visual parameters. These visual changes can be stored in Visual PML format, which is also specified in this work. Furthermore, this application permits the export of displayed trees into various vector and raster image formats.