

The topic of his thesis Using neuronavigace in influencing the visual cortex using TMS I chose due to his interest in psychiatry and working with chronically mentally ill during the study.

The method of transcranial magnetic stimulation may be classified as new non-invasive therapeutic methods, thus contributing to a better quality of life certain psychiatric and neurological patients.