

Abstract

My graduation thesis summarizes current knowledge about the most significant ectoparasitosis of cats and dogs, current approaches to its therapeutics and cure forms of antiektoparasitological preparations. An important part of my graduation thesis creates an overview of registered medicines and authorized veterinary medicines and biocides intended for the treatment for ectoparasitosis of dogs and cats in the Czech Republic.