

Diploma thesis "Anamorphed map of the world according to Lidové noviny in year 1927" deal with coverage of foreign news by a quality Czechoslovak newspaper in a period called "first republic" It examines frequency of news from particular countries, their dimension and source. It investigates about which countries was written in the press during a year which wasn't too eventful, so with a limited degree of validity the results are utilizable for other years in the era before the world economic crisis (1929). In those times the republic called Czechoslovakia prospered.