Help during mass accidents, attitude of man and organizations

We can't prevent mass accidents, but definitely we can reduce their devastating consequences. From prevention point of view, we must pay attention to ways of warning people against coming danger and then proper instructions, how to behave and systematical training suitable procedure in critical situations.

Human life can never really be without sense. That's why bad sides of human living, suffering, guilt and death can be change into something positive, into achievement, only when we have the right attitude and sight.
