

Tax Registers of the Town of Rakovník, 1436–1449 [1450]

The dissertation deals with financial administration of bohemian cities in the Middle Ages and its reflection in municipal financial books. The main focus is involvement of cities in the state tax administration. The municipal tax registers were also studied as sources for research of economic and social structure of medieval cities. Part of the dissertation is an edition of the Tax registers of the town of Rakovník from 1436–1449 [1450].

keywords: taxes, financial administration, Middle Ages, municipal administration, economic history, social history, urban history