The diploma thesis is concerned with the progress of russian wordstock at the end of 20th century and at the beginning of 21st century. It involves classification of neologisms, gives the temporary ways of expanding word-stock with current examples of wordformation, it develops tendency of word borrowings from English and addresses also the functional and stylistic changes.