

My thesis deals with the prevention of risky behavior among children and pupils at elementary schools. Compares the results of a survey in Prague and Central Bohemia focused on the issue. The aim of this thesis is to map the current state of prevention in these schools, to identify gaps and possible solutions.