

The thesis describes a historical evolution of teaching profession and the contemporary teacher in the theoretical part.

The practical part compares all faculties of education in the Czech Republic which are focused on university education of the future pre-school teachers in the study programme of Specialization in Education, Nursery School Teacher Training.