

This work deals with with the history of Czech Brethern congregation in the village Huslenky. It covers generally the period before the publication of Tolerance Act in details then the origin of the congregation itself and its characteristic during the periods of the particular ministers until nowadays.