

Main idea of this work is to show the look of the perception of the leisure time of youngsters in the diagnostic institution. Teoretical part is divited into four chapters which are about the general leisure time, a relationship of the leisure time of the family and youngster who grows up inside the family. There are also information about diagnostic institution in generally and some detailed information about leisure activities inside the institution. Practical part of this work is built from six interviews with clients in the diagnostic institution. It was interviewed about the leisure time and it sperception in the eyes of the youngsters. At the end there is an evaluation of the whole work together with my own idea of this youngsters inside the diagnostic institution. There is a list of read books used during writting of this work.