

10. SUMMARY

The theme of this Rigorous is Selected Problems of the Criminal Statistics in the Czech Republic. This work follows up my Thesis “Criminal Statistics in the Czech Republic and possibilities of its improvement” of May 2008.

In the introduction I present the theme of the criminal statistics and the targets of my Rigorous.

In the second chapter described are basic problems of criminality, the difference between the latent and registered criminality and also the subject, value and application of the criminal statistics.

The subsequent chapter deals with the system of the criminal statistics and with the current state of this system kept by the police and the judiciary. This chapter is mainly concerned with the description of the legislative basis of the criminal statistics, manner of organization and processing of criminal statistical data.

The fourth chapter concerns the pieces of knowledge from the development of electronization of police’s system up to now and with the significant changes which happened in 2008 and 2009. This chapter also focuses on judicial electronic information system used within the criminal proceedings and presents further interdepartmental and independent projects of the Department of Justice.

The fifth chapter of the Rigorous deals with the selected problems and possibilities of improvement of criminal statistics. It includes particularly the problem of interpretation and presentation of criminal findings, archiving of data, issue of victims, but also the possibilities of international comparison of criminal statistics.

The subsequent chapter of my work contains problems of electronic systems used within the criminal proceedings and criminal statistics. It concerns problems of development, initiation, security of the system and the absence of the legal regulation. In particular it describes one of the fundamental problems which is the way of connection of two independent systems kept by the police and by the judiciary.

In the conclusion there is the summary of the theme of criminal statistics and targets of my Rigorous. After the description of the current state of the criminal statistics in the Czech Republic I point out to unfulfilled potential of possibilities and improvement and to future development of criminal statistics.
