

ABSTRACT

Author : Petra Hudská

Title: Psoriasis – methods of treatment

Thesis

Charles University in Prague, Faculty of Pharmacy in Hradec Králové

Specialization: Pharmacy

Background: The main aim of this thesis is on the base of foreign and domestic literature search to analyze findings concerning the skin psoriasis ailment and devote the possible innovations in the psoriasis treatment.

Main findings: The first part focuses incidence, etiopathogenesis and clinical forms of disease. Although there are different opinions on the origin of psoriasis, on the present the immunological processes are the most important.

The second part describes the particular methods of treatment – external therapy, internal therapy, physical therapy and a biological medication. The alternative methods of treatment are also mentioned.

Conclusion: In the most cases there can be used internal and physical therapies methods of psoriasis treatment. In more complicated cases can be then used an internal therapy and biological medication. Biological treatment is indicated in the most complicated cases and offers prospective method that will probably develop in future development.

