

The diploma paper deals with so far unexplained problems concerning the administrative development of the Province of Sedlec in the north-western Bohemia and the Region of Locket as her successor, and forming of her institutions, power and social elements in the period since the 12th century until the half of the 16th century. The first part is focused on description of the development of the royal offices, genesis of the feudal systems and their mutual relationship. The second part deals with the administration of Locket and Cheb Region under the rule of the Schlick family.