

The bachelor thesis deals with the concept of lifelong education and its development at international and national level and strategic measures aimed at implementing the principles of lifelong learning, especially in school practice. It focuses on the ways in which schools can participate in this approach, particularly in the area of openness of schools and their change into educational community centres. It describes the concept of community education as a model for the realization of lifelong education in schools.