

In this bachelor thesis the author considers physiotherapy after amputation of the lower limb.

The theoretical section describes the anatomy of the lower limb, a procedure for amputation of the lower limb, occupational therapy and prosthesis. The author then goes on to discuss physiotherapy in relation to two case studies of patients who have had their lower limbs removed.