

The topic of this work is basketball, its evolution and its place in the world.

This development is inherently put together with the rules and their changes. Changes happens in this sport quite often. Research describes the influence of selected changes in rules on the game, namely the direction in which is basketball now developed, thanks to its changes in the rules.