

Abstract

The study deals with the evaluation of changes in landscape structure for long periods of time using GIS. Contains a search from problematic of the evaluation of landscape structure using ecological indicators using historical maps and aerial photographs and analysis of changes in landscape structure in the area of interest Kačina using selected landscape metrics.