

Abstract

Simple chromatographic tests (Walters and Engelhardt) were used for determination of chromatographic characteristics of three modern reversed HPLC columns, which were consequently compared on the basis of hydrophobicity, silanol activity, efficiency and selectivity.