

This thesis is mainly concerned with the education from values and education for values of the Scout Movement. The aim of this thesis is searching the answer if the values of today Scouting education are actual values of human life and child's life. The authoress of this thesis deals with the concept of value, the leisure time education, Scouting and education elements of this in the theoretical part. In the interviewing the authoress determined by practical part if the elementary school pupils, who are affected by Scouting are different from their contemporaries in their views and attitudes to basic human values and if they spend leisure time well and enter the lifelong process for human values realisation which was proved to be true.