

Theme: Mechanisms of Sects and New religious currents, which can be found in the Protestant Churches. This work brings knowledge of some of the mechanisms of functioning together, as in the Churches and Sects and New religious currents. In the individual chapters are described, the mechanisms for the management and operation of the community, methods and practices of acquiring new members, and finally, mechanisms and practices to maintain these new members within the community. The result is the acquisition of new knowledge concerning the diversity and contrast, on the common features they share each other's Protestant Church, Sects and New religious currents. The aim of the work is to draw attention to the mechanisms in the Christian Church, which is harmful and should therefore be deleted.
