

The work is an attempt to expand the E.O. Wilson's idea of consilience, especially in the area of human morals. The main aim is to point out differences between transcendental and empirical view of human morals, their confrontation using contemporary knowledge in the theory of evolution and to draw a consequences of evolutionary conception of human morals.