

This bachelor's thesis concerns with problematic of people with special disabilities. It contains several areas that are connected with disabled citizens. With regard to domain of this study, the impact insists mainly the education and employment of these people. At the beginning of this study there is a short historical view of attitudes to this group and modern legislative which applies to this group. In the next chapters, the study speaks about education and employing people with disabilities. Last but not least, we will discuss influence of EU at this sphere and forms of consultancy activities that are essential for people with special needs